Subject interview (10 questions) and responses

Question 1: How would you describe yourself in a few sentences?

Response: I would describe myself as resilient, growth-minded, and deeply family-centered. I have been through difficult seasons, but I've worked hard to heal, stay focused, and keep moving forward. I care about becoming the best version of myself and building a meaningful life for my family.

Question 2: What are the most important things in your life right now?

Response: Right now, my family, my education, and my long-term goals matter most. I am working toward my Master's in Psychology while still trying to stay present at home and make time for the people who support me.

Question 3: What are three hobbies or activities you enjoy the most?

Response: My favorite hobbies are PC gaming, reading, and baking. I also love that I have been given the opportunity to travel with my family in our camper and see the country.

Question 4: What is one major personal accomplishment you are proud of?

Response: One of my biggest accomplishments is being the first person in my family to graduate college. That milestone gave me confidence and showed me what is possible when I stay committed.

Question 5: What does school or learning mean to you right now?

Response: Learning is a major part of my life right now. School is helping me grow personally and professionally, and it is preparing me for my long-term goal of opening my own practice.

Question 6: What does your ideal future look like in the next few years?

Response: In the next few years, I want to finish my graduate degree, continue traveling, and move closer to opening my own psychology practice. Long-term, I want to find land and build a homestead for my family.

Question 7: What role does family play in your life?

Response: Family is at the center of everything I do. They are my biggest motivation, and most of my goals are about creating stability, opportunity, and meaningful experiences for us together.

Question 8: What challenges have shaped who you are today?

Response: One of the biggest challenges in my life has been working through mental health struggles and depression connected to past trauma. It has taken years of effort, reflection, and healing, but that journey has made me stronger, more self-aware, and more compassionate. I am proud of how hard I've worked to keep growing and to build healthy ways to move forward.

Question 9: What are three personal values that matter most to you?

Response: The three values that matter most to me are resilience, compassion, and commitment. Resilience reminds me to keep going, compassion shapes how I treat others, and commitment keeps me focused on the long-term goals I'm working toward

Question 10: How would the people closest to you describe you?

Response: The people closest to me would probably describe me as driven, dependable, and caring. They would say I am always planning ahead, but still focused on making memories along the way.

FORMAL WRITE-UP

Biography of Samantha (250+ words)

Samantha Nizam's story is grounded in resilience, family, and steady personal growth. Born in Texas and shaped by challenges early in life, she learned to adapt, persevere, and keep moving forward even during difficult seasons. Those experiences helped form the values that define her today: commitment, compassion, and a deep focus on building a meaningful life for the people she loves.

Over the past decade, Samantha has built that life with intention. She and her husband started their family, navigated major life transitions, and created a home centered on support and togetherness. Through both joyful milestones and hard moments, she has continued choosing growth. Her role as a wife and mother remains at the center of her daily purpose, and much of what she pursues is motivated by the future she wants to create for her family.

Education has become one of the clearest examples of her determination. After returning to college more than once, Samantha stayed the course and is now graduating from Bellevue University with her bachelor's degree, a major personal accomplishment and an important turning point. She plans to continue her academic journey toward a Master's in Psychology, with the long-term goal of opening her own practice and helping others in meaningful, practical ways.

Outside of school, Samantha's hobbies reflect the same balance of connection and growth that shapes her life. She enjoys PC gaming, reading, baking, and traveling with her family. Looking ahead, she hopes to continue exploring the country, grow professionally, and eventually build a homestead where her family can put down lasting roots. Her story is still unfolding, but it is already a strong reflection of perseverance, love, and purpose.
